Program and Project

Helping Homeless Families with Children in our Community

Beta Delta Chapter combined a program/ project in October. Family Promise of Greater Johnson City, a shelter program providing a way for homeless families to remain together while addressing challenges that forced them into becoming homeless, presented our program. Allison Smith, director, shared information about available services to families that include job skills/ life skills training and counseling. Members showered Family Promise with needed supplies, such as cleaning supplies, laundry items, personal hygiene products, and toiletries. Family Promise works in conjunction with Interfaith Hospitality Network when providing housing/ meals and Families Moving Home, a transitional housing program, providing rental assistance and permanent housing.

Please note: Several Chapter members also work with local churches to assist with the Interfaith Hospitality Network.
